By Emily-Rose Pappas

EAST BROOKFIELD – The East Brookfield Public Library hosted a meet and greet with six candidates running for various positions in town government for the upcoming town election on May 14.

Many were running again for the chance to be re-elected to their position, and many new faces came to the event for the chance at the positions.

Russell DiBara, a town resident his whole life, came to share his desire for a position on the Board of Health.

“I believe in working with the people,” he said.

“I grew up here all my life, and I’m interested in helping people,” DiBara said. He shared his desire to provide service to the community outside of the normal once-a-week board meetings, and even pro-

Article 32 will ask voters to appropriate $400,000 to pay for the cost of permitting, site preparation, utilities connection, purchase and installation of a prefabricated office trailer for the operation of the water treatment system at 20 Water-

BROOKFIELD – The annual Yeti Fest returned and was hosted by the Brookfield Rod & Gun Club.

This fundraising event features delicious food, live music and raffles and have been enjoyed under the same roof since 2016.

The visionary behind Yeti Fest is the event host Darren

Collette. The idea of Yeti Fest came to Collette as a way to start a fundraiser that supports The Brookfield Rod & Gun Club.

“I had to come up with a theme,” Collette said.

The idea of the term Yeti comes from Collette himself as it is a nickname people know him by. Collette also has a friend who goes by the nickname “Sasquatch”. What gave

Quabbin held presentation about parenting and anxiety

By Ryan Drago
Staff Writer
rdrago@turley.com

BARRE – Quabbin Regional High School welcomed Lynn Lyons to present a presentation on worrying called “Modeling Matters: What parents need to know (and do) to decrease stress, worry and anxiety.”

Lyons is a licensed clinical social worker and psychoanalyst based out of Concord, New Hampshire. She has traveled internationally as a speaker and trainer on the subject of anxiety.

Anxiety plays a role in families, at home and in schools.

With this presentation, Lyons has a special emphasis on cell phones and social media and how they impact worrying, stress and anxiety.

According to Lyons’ studies the rate of worrying and anxiety amongst adolescents began before the COVID-19 pandemic. Although the pandemic contributed to the increase of anxiety, worrying and stress, Lyons believes the initial increase had started about a decade earlier when technology began growing in popularity.

Technology such as smart phones and social media outlets were making their way into not only in homes but also into classrooms in school. Lyons believes that kids are more and more afraid of their emotions and social media is heavily involved in it.

“Inaccurate information is making it worse,” Lyons said referring to the use of social media being involved in daily life.

When discussing worrying, Lyons describes worrying as predictable, redundant and persistent.

Regarding anxiety, Lyons shared that anxiety demands both certainty and comfort.

Certainty revolves around someone wanting to know what’s going on in advance and to have some form of control. Comfort is the feeling of being safe and comfortable or else wants out of something.

Lyons shared a quote from David Barlow that defines anxiety as a form of someone’s way of overestimating and underestimating certain situations.

“Anxiety is an overestimation of the problem and an underestimation of your resource to deal with it,” Lyons paraphrasing Barlow.

In other words, what may seem like a big deal to the individual with anxiety may not be as big of a deal to others.

Lynn Lyons of New Hampshire gave a presentation on worrying at Quabbin Regional High School. TURLEY PHOTOS BY RYAN DRAGO

“It’s a bummer, not an emergency or crisis,” Lyons said.

Lyons then spoke about avoidance and how it is a primary trap that leads to anxiety taking over. Avoidance is a tactic people use when handling certain situations that may stress them out or trigger their anxiety.

This primary trap is the promotion of elimination and avoidance.

“The more you try to get rid of a worried thought or symptom, the stronger it gets,” Lyons said.

If someone is avoiding something that makes them anxious, it does more harm than good.

Lyons suggests that parents should pay attention to connection. Humans need connection to bond and form meaningful relationships.

According to Lyons, being in front of screens get in the way of making those connections.

Back in 2012-2013 Lyons believes that smart phones really started to get into the hands of teenagers and the age of kids getting cell phones is getting even younger.

Lyons also believes that social isolation has a significant impact on the emotional and physical health of children and adolescents.

Getting kids involved in group work and volunteering opportunities help give purpose. Group work also gives children the practice and opportunities to connect.

School projects, sports, activities and clubs all offer real-life interactions. When fostering connection versus isolation, Lyons believes both anxiety and depression makes isolation.

Tracking is a source parents use as a digital app to track their kids’ phones to know exactly where they’re located. Lyons feels that tracking is more intrusive and gets in the way of developing problem solving.

In other words, Lyons hopes parents begin promoting autonomy and support it in any way as their kids move into adulthood. Instead of relying on devices parents and their children can communicate responsibly and build on critical skills such as relationship repair, awkward empathy, self-disclosure and emotional literacy.

Before wrapping up her presentation, Lyons gave away two copies of her book “Anxious Kids, Anxious Parents.” Her most recent book “The Anxiety Audit” was released back in October of 2022.

Lyons has been traveling and presenting Modeling Matters since 2015 and was featured in the recent documentary “Anxious Nation”. Folks can listen to Lyons on her podcast, Flusterclux on multiple podcast outlets.

Lyons’ presentation focused on worrying and anxiety and how parents handle it with their children.

Lyons is the host of the podcase Flusterclux and thanked the audience for letting her share her presentation on worrying.

in the Garden

by Roberta McQuaid

Do it now, while the forsythia is blooming

It's funny how nature is sometimes used as a cue to do this or do that.

The term is phenology. When I was first learning about perennials all those years ago at UMass, I remember my instructor saying it was safe to remove winter protection "when the forsythia is blooming."

It is also safe to prune roses and butterfly bush "when the forsythia is blooming." And it's time to sow your peas and plant grass seed, too.

Kinda cool, isn't it, that nature can dictate when it is safe or indeed the best time to accomplish things in the garden?

The forsythia is blooming nicely in my front yard, and I did head out over the weekend to tackle some of the above. My pink "Fairy" rose bush was in dire need of clean up.

There was a wee bit of winter kill that I trimmed back to the next nice node. Shockingly there were still some spent flower clusters left from last year; those were removed as well.

Long arching branches were reigned in – it's not good for roses to be all over the ground where they are more susceptible to fungal issues. Likewise, canes that were crossing each other or branching out at weird angles were remedied too.

I applied a sprinkling of granular organic fertilizer at the base of the plant to support all of the beautiful blooms I'm expecting to have.

My 2-year-old Butterfly Bush (Buddleia) barely suffered any winter kill at all in contrast to last year when it died back all the way to the ground! I'm excited because that means it has a couple of feet head start and earlier blooms to boot!

I had to remove only a couple of inches of dead tips. I applied a balanced fertilizer here too in hopes of many beautiful purple flowers.

Other sections of my perennial beds met with different jobs to be done. Gayfeather (Liatris spicata) always looks unkept until new growth ensues.

I try to cut the old stems down a bit further and rake my hands through the dead, grass-like foliage, clipping away what doesn't come free easily. If you look within the plant you'll notice whitish tips of new growth. It won't be long!

I find a lot of satisfaction from cultivating the perennial garden, but it's almost too early to do that. Butterfly Weed (Asclepias tuberosa) is still weeks away from popping up.

If I haphazardly scratch around in the garden it could be at the plant's expense or at the expense of any self-sown seedlings that germinated. Purple Coneflower (Echinacea purpurea) is always a good self-sower, but it's up to you to decide if these tiny plants are worthy of keeping or weeding out.

Same goes for Ballon Flower (Platyodon).

Lavender (Lavandula) is sometimes slow to wake up too, but this year the plants already look "alive." Many times, you have to search within the plant for signs of fresh silver-green growth, then cut back to that point.

This year, like we saw with the Butterfly Bush, there seems to be very little winter kill. I'm going to leave be for now and not prune anything yet.

I planted Hollyhocks (Alcea rosea) near Capital campaign funds church heating system and steeple repairs

WEST BROOKFIELD – The First Congregational Church of West Brookfield, (UCC) successfully completed a capital campaign to fund the purchase and installation of a mini-split heating system and repairs to the steeple.

The campaign concluded on March 31 with total donations exceeding $51,000. The new heating system has kept the congregation warm this winter season and the steeple on this historic building has been saved from potential collapse.

Donations for the campaign came not only from the congregation but also from many community businesses and individuals. Thanks to everyone for their support.

my lamp post last spring and they grew great all summer. I thought it would be neat to have 6-7-foot spires of papery pastel blooms reaching for the sky, reminiscent of the Polish hollyhocks my mom had by the porch when I was a teenager.

Admittedly they don't look all that fabulous right at the moment. Hollyhocks like it rich, so I fertilized and will also provide some compost to further enhance their growth, and maybe just maybe I will re-live the Hollyhocks of my youth come July.

All in all, I feel pretty good at how the perennial gardens faired through the winter. Next week I have to get those peas in – at least before the forsythia stops blooming!

Nick's Waves of Change, Inc.

3rd annual Spaghetti Dinner Fundraiser benefits scholarship

By Paula Ouimette
Editor
pouimette@turley.com

LUDLOW – For the third year, Nick's Waves of Change, Inc. is holding its annual Spaghetti Dinner Fundraiser to provide scholarships to local students and give out caregiver awards.

Nick's Waves of Change, Inc. was formed following the passing of Belchertown resident Nicholas R. Boileau from acute myeloid leukemia on June 19, 2021, at the age of 28.

"Nick's Waves of Change was started in memory of my son," Jennifer Boileau said. "We started a scholarship fund and offered our first scholarship in 2022."

Nick grew up loving sports and hanging out with his close-knit group of friends. He shared a strong bond with his sister Erica, who he loved immensely, and enjoyed time with his cherished dog, Loki.

"I couldn't have handpicked two kids to be more respectful of one another than the two of them," Boileau said.

Boileau said her son was very shy growing up, but really came into his own in adulthood.

"He flew under the radar when he was here, but he made an impact when he moved on. He had to do a lot on his own and stand up for himself," she said.

In its first year, Nick's Waves of Change, Inc. awarded two scholarships to seniors at Belchertown High School, where Nick graduated from. Since then, Nick's Waves of Change, Inc. has continued to award scholarships to Belchertown students, in addition to giving out five caregiver awards last year and again this year.

Following high school, Nick went on to earn a bachelor's degree in psychology from Western New England University and a master's degree in public health with a concentration in epidemiology from the University of Michigan.

"My son was very much into education and research," Boileau said, adding that Nick was enrolled in a doctorate program at the University of Alabama, Birmingham at the time his cancer returned.

Nick even published over 30 research papers, with many focusing on caregivers and the stress they go through to care for their loved ones. While at the University of Alabama, Nick was working with children with sickle cell anemia and trying to come up with ways to help them cope with the pain.

Boileau said her son was fascinated with neurological conditions such as Huntington's disease and traumatic brain injuries, especially the impact these conditions have on caregivers.

"He was hoping to do his own research in regard to neurological conditions," Boileau said. "He was interested more in the caregiving side of it...how he could help the people who help the people who have the disease. It's a 24/7 job for some people...He did a lot while he was here."

Shortly before his death, Nick wrote two blog posts chronicling his experience with cancer.

In the post entitled "The Battle", Nick talked about change, and how even small changes can make an impact:

"At the time of our passing, we may not fully see the extent of how the changes we make will impact the course of the universe, but we can look at the embers and envision how our choices will impact those around us...I look at my life and see that I made many changes to the world that, despite their seemingly small size, may ripple into something amazing."

Nick's Waves of Change, Inc. continues to make ripples across the community and reach more people. Its growing number of supporters have allowed the organization to offer an additional scholarship to any western Massachusetts high school senior.

"We thought the best way to give back to the community as a whole would be to give back to a student outside of Belchertown," Boileau said.

Also new this year is the opportunity for people ages 18-40 to enroll in the National Marrow Donor Program.

Boileau said when Nick had leukemia, they couldn't find a match, but that his sister was able to provide a haploidentical stem cell transplant as his sibling.

"And he got three more years of life with her," she said. "We've been big proponents about getting people registered now."

When Nick's cancer returned, he was still unable to find a match, and his mother was the next to donate a partial match. Boileau said people can donate more than once, but in some cases, like her son's, the recipient can only receive it from the same person one time.

"If it's the same blood, it's not going to fight to change over and it needs to change to some other form for the white cells to attack," she said. "On his particular kind, you have to have a different donor."

Boileau said the process to donate stem cells takes about four hours, with blood being drawn and the cells being spun out, before the blood is returned to the donor. In about 10% of situations, the bone marrow is drawn from the base of the donor's spine.

"They can do it very successfully just by drawing the stem cells from the blood," she said.

This year, the dinner will be held on Thursday, May 9 at the Ludlow Elks Lodge, 69 Chapin St., with doors opening at 4:30 p.m. Dinner will be served from 5:30-7 p.m.

"Ludlow Elks Lodge has been gracious enough to gift us their hall, so we are having it there," Boileau said.

USACE starts master plan revision for East Brimfield Lake

STURBRIDGE – The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, New England District will host an open house April 30 to kick off a process to revise the 1998 East Brimfield Lake Master Plan for the East Brimfield Lake project in Fiskdale.

The open house will be held from 4-6 p.m. at the Sturbridge Town Hall (Veterans Memorial Hall) at 308 Main St. There will be no formal presentation during the session, but USACE members will be on hand to share information about the revision process, provide the general schedule and gather initial feedback from the public.

The master plan serves as the strategic land use management document that guides the comprehensive management and development of all recreational, natural and cultural resources throughout the life of the water resource development project. It defines how USACE will manage the resources for public use and conservation.

The current East Brimfield Master Plan was last approved in 1998 and needs revision to address changes in regional land use, population, outdoor recreation trends, and the USACE management policy. Key topics to be discussed in the revised master plan include updated land use classifications, new natural and recreational resource management objectives, recreation facility needs, and special issues such as invasive species management and threatened and endangered species habitat.

The revision does not address the technical and operational aspects of the East Brimfield Lake project related to flood risk management or the water conservation missions of the project.

An initial 30-day public comment period will begin April 30 and end May 30. During this time, members of the public can submit comments, suggestions and concerns about the master plan.

Comments must be submitted in writing at the open house or digitally via the comment form on the East Brimfield Master Plan revision website at <https://www.nae.usace.army.mil/Missions/Recreation/East-Brimfield-Lake/East-Brimfield-Lake-Master-Plan/>. The website also contains a presentation which will be available during the open house that provides details about an additional comment period that will open after the draft report is released (currently scheduled for June 2025).

The East Brimfield Lake project is located along the upper reaches of the Quinebaug River in south central Massachusetts in the towns of Brimfield, Holland and Sturbridge. Construction of the East Brimfield Dam was completed in June 1960 at a cost of $7,057,000.

It is a rolled earthfill dam that is 520 feet long and 55 feet high and holds back a lake capable of storing 9.4 billion gallons of water. East Brimfield Dam helps to reduce flooding in Sturbridge and Southbridge and optimizes its flood damage reduction by coordinating its operation with other dams in the comprehensive Thames River Basin system.

USACE manages the natural resources at East Brimfield Lake for multiple uses to include flood risk management, wildlife habitat, forest production, watershed protection and outdoor recreation.

While the main purpose of East Brimfield Lake is to provide flood risk management to the Thames River Basin, over the years the lake has become a recreational draw for approximately 135,000 visitors a year. With over 10 miles of multi-use trails, a five-mile-long canoe trail, 1,670 acres of land, 400 acres of water, picnic areas, a swimming beach, and three boat launches, the lake can accommodate all kinds of outdoor enthusiasts.

For more information about East Brimfield Lake, visit the project website at <https://www.nae.usace.army.mil/Missions/Recreation/East-Brimfield-Lake/>.

USACE hosts open house for Buffumville Lake Master Plan revision

CHARLTON – The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, New England District will host an open house May 1 to kick off a process to revise the 1976 Buffumville Lake Master Plan for the Buffumville Lake project in Charlton.

The open house will be held from 4:30-6:30 p.m. at the Charlton Public Library Community Meeting Room at 40 Main St. There will be no formal presentation during the session, but USACE members will be on hand to share information about the revision process, provide the general schedule and gather initial feedback from the public.

The master plan serves as the strategic land use management document that guides the comprehensive management and development of all recreational, natural and cultural resources throughout the life of the water resource development project. It defines how USACE will manage the resources for public use and conservation.

The current Buffumville Lake Master Plan was last approved in 1976 and needs revision to address changes in regional land use, population, outdoor recreation trends, and the USACE management policy. Key topics to be discussed in the revised master plan include updated land use classifications, new natural and recreational resource management objectives, recreation facility needs, and special issues such as invasive species management and threatened and endangered species habitat.

The revision does not address the technical and operational aspects of the Buffumville Lake project related to flood risk management or the water conservation missions of the project.

An initial 30-day public comment period will begin May 1 and end May 31. During this time, members of the public can submit comments, suggestions and concerns about the master plan.

Comments must be submitted in writing at the open house or digitally via the comment form on the Buffumville Lake Master Plan revision website at <https://www.nae.usace.army.mil/Missions/Recreation/Buffumville-Lake/Buffumville-Lake-Master-Plan/>. The website also contains a presentation which will be available during the open house that provides details about an additional comment period that will open after the draft report is released (currently scheduled for June 2025).

The Buffumville Lake project is located along the Little River and South Fork River in the upper Thames River Basin. After hurricanes Connie and Diane caused catastrophic damage in the surrounding towns in 1955, construction of Buffumville Dam began in 1956 and was completed in April 1958 at a cost of $3,068,000.

It is a rolled earthfill dam that is 3,255 feet long and 57.5 feet high. Buffumville Dam helps to reduce flooding in Webster and in small towns downstream along the French River to Putnam, Connecticut, and optimizes its flood protection by coordination its operation with Hodges Village Dam in Oxford.

USACE manages the natural resources at Buffumville Lake for multiple uses to include flood risk management, wildlife habitat, forest production, watershed protection and outdoor recreation.

While the main purpose of Buffumville Lake is to provide flood risk management to the Thames River Basin, over the years the lake has become a recreational draw for approximately 140,000 visitors a year. With seven miles of trails, 480 acres of land, 200 acres of water, picnic areas, a swimming beach, 18-hole disc golf course, and a boat launch, the lake can accommodate all kinds of outdoor enthusiasts.

For more information about Buffumville Lake, visit the project website at <https://www.nae.usace.army.mil/Missions/Recreation/Buffumville-Lake/>.

Article 33 will require a two-thirds majority vote to appropriate $3,300,000 to replace the Stallion Hill water tank.

At the board's April 16 meeting, Finance Director Barabra Barry said she received language from bond counsel to accompany the motions for the articles related to borrowing, stating: "While any bonds or notes issued pursuant to this vote will constitute general obligation debt of the town, it is expected that such debt will be paid through user rates and charges."

Town Administrator Robin Grimm said in regard to article 33, the board may want to consider having some of the cost fall back on the town in general, instead of being entirely on ratepayers, due to the town-wide use of the tank for fire suppression purposes.

"This tank is one of our largest tanks, it would not need to be so large if it was not also the source of our fire suppression for water," she said.

Grimm said the replacement of the tank is critical.

Grimm said the tank feeds not only the fire suppression, but a number of commercial businesses. She said the board could consider a 50/50 split between the town accruing the debt and the ratepayers.

Barry said the debt is expected to be paid back over 20 years, and would add $1.58 to the water rate at 100% ratepayer funding, and $.79 at 50%. She said it would reduce the amount paid by ratepayers if the town voted to split the debt.

The current water rate is $8.45 per cubic foot. If 100% of the debt were to fall on the ratepayers, this rate would increase by about 19%, versus about 10% with a 50/50 split.

Department of Public Works Director Heather Blakeley said there is a benefit for the community through using this tank for fire suppression, including better insurance rates.

"This tank is a very large tank, it gives really good fire ratings," she said. "We haven't had any problems with supply of the water and that's really credit to having the capacity for that."

Grimm said if a percentage of the debt is paid by the general taxpayers, they won't see a direct out of pocket increase for non-water users.

The annual debt payment the town would be responsible for if there was a 50/50 split would amount to about $155,000 a year, over the course of 20 years. This amount would decrease over time as the principal of the debt is paid down.

"What they're already paying in taxes will absorb that...it just means from a budgetary standpoint, when we look at what we have to spend money on, that is going to be a consideration," she said.

Board members present supported a 50/50 split with Mary Blanchard opposed. Selectman Mary Dowling was unable to attend the meeting.

Pole hearings

National Grid requested approval to install one joint ownership pole on Haynes Street and lay and maintain underground laterals, cables and wires. They made the same request for a location on New Boston Road.

National Grid also requested to install one JO pole and one 50 Class H1 pole and to lay and maintain underground laterals, cables and wires on both Fiske Hill and Whittemore roads.

The 50 Class H1 poles will support a recloser on Fiske Hill Road and a load break switch on Whittemore Road.

A New Boston Road resident questioned the placement of the new pole, which would disrupt her line of sight from her driveway.

"It's a dangerous section of New Boston Road," she said.

Another resident of New Boston Road shared similar concerns.

The board approved the requests for Haynes Street, Fiske Hill Road and Whittemore Road, but did not take action on New Boston Road until the DPW can meet with National Grid regarding the pole's location.

Town Administrator's report

Grimm said she and Blakeley are continuing to meet with the commonwealth regarding Walker Pond.

"This tank is one of our largest tanks, it would not need to be so large if it was not also the source of our fire suppression for water."

— Robin Grimm,
Town Administrator

"They're looking at different design plans," Grimm said. "We haven't even gotten to the point of funding sources or anything like that, but just want people to know we are still looking at it."

Grimm said she and Blakely are meeting with Camp Road residents to discuss their road and private roads in general.

She said Lake Street residents will also be meeting with town officials at a later date, about the possible installation of a gate. Grimm said the town is not authorizing the installation of a gate on the private road, but she did confirm that legally, the residents can block through access with a gate as long as people can turn around at the gate and that emergency responders have access.

"We are going to host a meeting for anybody interested or concerned," she said.

Grimm said National Grid will meet with the Tree Warden and Conservation regarding pole locations and trees on Podunk.

"We want to be very, very careful what comes down," she said. "We'll have a whole team from the town there."

Grimm invited all residents to attend that meeting on May 9 at 1 p.m.

Route 20/Arnold Road intersection

Grimm said a group of senior citizens approached her with concerns about the intersection of Arnold Road and Route 20.

"This is basically just to get a study done to see if there is any merit and we know that's a busy road coming out of there," Grimm said.

The study will cost about $10,000 and will be paid using American Rescue Plan Act funds.

Board member MaryLou Volpe said a lot of people off Arnold Road go down Cooper Road to Cedar Street, in order to reach the traffic light. She asked if the intersection at Cooper Road could be included in the study.

Grimm said she will ask the company conducting the study to take that into consideration.

Liquor license application

Marco Baldieri and Kathy Baldieri

of Mamma Italia, LLC applied for a new liquor license for their restaurant located at 139 Main St., Suite 2.

A resident that lives behind the restaurant shared his concerns about litter and broken glass from alcohol bottles and cans. He wanted to make sure the restaurant would not be selling closed containers that could potentially make the littering problem worse.

The owners said the license would be to serve customers on premise only.

The board approved the full liquor license to Mamma Italia, LLC.

Vote to rescind

The board rescinded approval of $31,500 to the Edward J. Collins Jr. Center for Public Management to complete a self-evaluation and transition plan through a grant received from the Massachusetts Office of Disability.

Grimm said the Collins Center no longer has the capacity to conduct the study that the grant was written to pay for. She said she has received other quotes to complete the study.

The board then approved an agreement with Capital Strategic Solutions in the amount of $30,500.

Resignations

The board acknowledged a letter of resignation from Firefighter Michael Gelinas. Gelinas will no longer be a full-time firefighter, but will remain on the Fire Department part-time.

The board also acknowledged and accepted a letter of resignation from Kyle St. Marie from the DPW.

Approvals

The board approved a one-day liquor license for Tutti Quanti on April 26 from 7-9 p.m. for an event at Pickleball U, 178C Main St.; and for J.T. Ethier/Greater Good on April 27 from 5-9 p.m. for the town bonfire.

The board approved a transient vendor application for James and Jean Mountain of New England Antique Arms Society for June 7-8 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. at the Sturbridge Host Hotel.

Right of first refusal

The board waived the right of first refusal for property located at 38 and 40 Hamilton Road during a public hearing.

"We have a lot of folks who work in the region attend our meetings, but not as many who live in those towns," Boutot said at the April 8 meeting.

She said the survey was distributed to those who attend the alliance's meetings and are on the email list.

Boutot said the survey showed that members preferred monthly meetings being held on Monday mornings, or even in the afternoon. An afternoon session would potentially open up the meetings for more youth and community members.

Hybrid meetings were the primary choice as well as virtual. Having in person meetings posed a challenge for working people.

Boutot said those taking the survey also asked for more research updates.

"Research is a broad subject," she said. It can cover prevention, treatment, recovery or events with speakers.

Survey takers said it would be great to have more speakers at meetings.

Boutot said the survey also showed that alliance members wanted to receive more information about kratom and hemp-based cannabis, as well as neurodivergence, mental health and substance use.

Boutot said there was less interest in policy making.

"People seem to be more interested in the science than the rules and regulations," she said.

The alliance will still continue to be involved in policy making, Boutot said.

"We're still involved in them and still working on them," she said.

The alliance is now forming working groups with community members to focus on different areas of substance use prevention, including vaping prevention and education, school substance prevention and more.

"We are here to listen," Boutot said. "We are learning and growing...the team is growing."

Safe Storage update

Drug Free Communities Program Director Rebecca Edwards said Quaboag Hills Substance Use Alliance is running a Safe Storage campaign, to encourage people to safely store their medications and substances in their homes.

Proper storage includes keeping medications out of sight and reach of children; in a locking medicine box; or in a locking, scent-free pouch (for cannabis). It also means disposing of unused or expired medication at the police station or CVS in Ware.

QHSUA member Mark Klee is also working with pharmacy partners to find ways to distribute lock boxes from those locations in the future.

Edwards said people can also ask for Dispose RX, a tablet that makes the medication unusable and safe to throw away. These are available at Walgreens or your local health department.

For more information, visit www.qhsua.org/safe-storage.

Grant updates

Community Engagement Coordinator for QHSUA Abaigeal Duda said the alliance is applying for the next cycle of the STOP Act Grant in May. The grant would target underage drinking in 12-20 year olds.

This is a federal grant from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration.

"We did have a STOP Act Grant that was extended through December 2023," Duda said. "This round will build on what was already established. We are really excited to apply for this."

Duda said the alliance was able to accomplish a lot with the first grant round, and the second one, if received, will focus on the towns of Palmer and Ware.

Events and updates

QHSUA member Sue Lewandowski said John Morello will visit North Brookfield Public Schools on May 8 and meet with students before welcoming community members from across the region to his "Dirt" presentation that evening.

The evening presentation will be held from 5-7 p.m. in the elementary school. A meet and greet will be held afterward.

"We really want a huge group," she said. "It isn't just for North Brookfield."

Lewandowski said Morello will be in the school all day speaking with students prior to the performance that will be held in the Elementary School.

Various organizations and service providers will have tables set up in the building, including QHSUA. The school band will also perform, and food will be available.

Duda said Youth Mental Health First Aid training will be held on April 24 from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. via Zoom.

"It is our goal to get as many people trained in this as possible," she said. "So you can recognize signs of distress, whether substance use or mental health."

Those that participate in the Youth Mental Health First Aid training can also choose to take part in a separate "train the trainer" session that will be held over three days.

Nisha Humayun, the Project Coordinator for Community Health with Healthy Quaboag, talked about the Quaboag Valley Food Policy Council and how its members are being trained on how to interview community members to complete the food assessment.

Dave Burns of the Palmer Police Department said the collaborative Community Strong Wellness events being held at the Palmer Public Library will continue on select Thursday afternoons from 1-4 p.m.

The next Community Strong Wellness event will be held on April 25. People are encouraged to stop in and meet the staff, or share any questions or concerns they may have.

This regular monthly event will assist people looking for help with problematic substance use, mental health concerns, housing stability, financial assistance, health insurance questions and more.

Collette the name Yeti was him preferring a colder climate.

Yeti Fest would soon become a fun party at the Rod & Gun club and Collette had T-shirts made. Collette and his friends who helped him with the raffle were supporting some Yeti Fest apparel. Collette's shirt was wearing his Yeti Fest 2017 shirt with a yeti in the center.

The popular feature at Yeti Fest is the chicken dinner known as "yeti chicken". This breaded chicken meal comes from a recipe made by Collette. This delicious, marinated chicken meal along with the raffles helps raise an average of about $3,000 a year to support projects and improvements of the Rod & Gun Club.

Yeti Fest makes anywhere from 120-150 chicken dinners a year. This year, the kitchen crew prepared about 120 meals as the crowd formed a line that took up almost the entire dining hall of the Brookfield Rod & Gun Club.

The raffle had various items up for grabs. From lottery trees, coolers, camping gear, tools it was all part of the fun party Yeti Fest.

After dinner The Brookfield Rod & Gun Club welcomed the music entertainment for Yeti Fest, Brookfield Rhythm.

Brookfield Rhythm is a local classic rock tribute band that plays music from iconic artists such as Fleetwood Mac, Eagles, Doobie Brothers, Tom Petty, Steve Miller and Joe Walsh. Brookfield Rhythm performs their greatest hits with high energy and makes for a rocking event, rocking like Yeti Fest.

Collette also does a similar event in the summertime called "Thunder in the Sticks". This event takes place at Brookfield Rod & Gun Club and is a fun outdoor party with an outdoor cookout. Burgers are the popular hot plate during Thunder in the Sticks.

Brookfield Rod & Gun Club, Inc. is located at 56 Webber Road in Brookfield and has been operating since 1933. Members of the Rod & Gun Club are an enthusiastic group of individuals brought together by a common passion.

the call for volunteers and helped pick up trash. One team of students scoured Town Farm Road and collected five heaping bags of trash (mostly cans and bottles) in just a one mile section.

Students also cleaned the area of the old Warren Dry Cleaners which was filled with debris. Now clean, hopefully the "litter bugs" will realize how much nicer the roads and town looks without roadside trash.

As the students were walking back through the center of town over the bridge with the beautiful Quaboag River below cascading over rocks, with the hills overlooking the town hall, and the sun coming out from behind the clouds, they had a sense of accomplishment and pride in helping to keep their rural community beautiful.

He has a passion for ensuring the town has access to clean drinking water and expressed his desire to “advocate for the seniors”.

“Children and seniors are a major priority to me,” he said.

James Lovett also came to the event running for re-election for the Board of Health. He served on the board for two years and expressed his desire to go back to the board.

“I’m trying to give a little bit of my time to the town,” Lovett said. “I’m seeing a lot of growth; there’s a lot of good people on the board making good progress, and I’d like to see it go further.”

For the position of Library Trustee, Caitlin McKeon Staples has been a librarian for more than 12 years, and grew up helping her mother, a librarian at the East Brookfield Public Library.

“I wanted to take on a leadership position in order to see that the library has the funding it needs, and that the librarians are taken care of,” she said. “I want to ensure there’s equal access for all in town.”

James Gross, a resident of East Brookfield for 11 years, fell in love with the town after moving there from New York City.

“I love the community, and I want to make this town the best it can be,” Gross said. “The most important thing to me is communication and transparency all of the residents.”

He shared his goals in making the communication better so that the town can share in “more success” as he felt immediately welcomed by the community.

Robert Button came forward to share his desire for re-election for a second term as a Selectman. “I want to make investments into the town employees who keep this town running,” Button said.

“I want to make sure the good work we accomplished in my first term, and make even more in my second,” Button said.

Andrew Lavoisier came also to share his running for one of the two Selectman positions and shared his desire to see changes made in the town and for the board.

“Maybe it is time to get involved,” Lavoisier said of his desire to join into the realm of town politics. “I want to see what improvements I can make.”

The upcoming election has many more candidates, and members of the town can eagerly look forward to the final election day for their chosen candidates.

What do public library trustees do?

In North Brookfield, members of the Haston Library Board of Trustees consists of seven members who are elected by registered voters to serve three-year terms on alternating schedules. We attend monthly board meetings and work closely with Library Director Amy Vessella.

In Massachusetts, the duties and responsibilities of public library trustee boards are outlined by both state law and city or town by-laws.

As trustees, we stay informed about the needs of the community and advocate for the town and the library to the Board of Selectmen, Finance Committee, and at Town Meetings as needed. The board of trustees hires and evaluates the library director, as we did recently with our wonderful new director, Ms. Vessella.

We review and adopt library by-laws, plans, and policies, such as for meeting rooms, child safety, confidentiality, patron behavior, materials selection, and more.

A big part of our job as library trustees is to review, approve, and actively support the Haston Library budget within the North Brookfield town budget. This includes being informed of the financial status of the library, understanding town and state requirements and funding sources, and knowing the library’s financial needs to serve the community through staffing, services, books and materials, technology, and building maintenance.

We work closely with Director Vessella, reviewing budget requests, making recommendations, and officially adopting the budget.

We’re also responsible for preserving the historic Haston Library building, again in partnership with the library director. This includes monitoring the maintenance of the building and helping to find solutions and funding for any problems that arise, large or small.

The board of trustees also played a key role in the renovation and expansion of the library, planning, vetting, and hiring architectural, construction, and project management firms, and fundraising, grant writing, and campaigning for community support.

We hope you’ll support the reelection of Tom Skowron and Harbour Fraser Hodder on May 6, so we can continue our work on behalf of the Haston Free Public Library.
